

Question 1

Examine the strengths and weaknesses of any two gender analysis frameworks that may be employed when monitoring gender and development progress in the developing world.

Question 2

If hired to conduct empowerment training for women in a specific sector in Zimbabwe, discuss how you would plan for and incorporate ideas on the impact of colonialism and imperialism as a basis for your training.

Question 3

Examine how Western Feminism may have influenced any two local interventions in Africa aimed at addressing gender inequalities. Give relevant examples from to support your arguments.

Question 4

Analyse the view that the early development theories were androcentric, perpetuated traditional economic views and ignored the realities of girls and women in the developing world. Give relevant evidence to support your arguments.

Question 5

Discuss the view that Sustainable Development Goals are a critical consideration for effective Gender and Development interventions in Africa. Give relevant case studies to support your arguments.

END