

1. The emerging research in the 1950s on perception, attention, memory, and language simply would not fit within the stimulus-response language and explanations. It needed a scientific revolution and Cognitive Psychology became the rallying cry for the cognitive revolution. Discuss
2. Demonstrate your understanding of cognitive psychology using its domains.
3. Explore the assertion that the concept of the computational brain is based on the idea that the mind is what the brain does, that is to process information.
4. Examine Atkinson and Shiffrin(1968) model in explaining human memory.
5. People face problems every day, usually, multiple problems throughout the day. Explain any problem solving strategies that can be used to find solutions to these problems